II-Reading comprehension (70 marks)

Read the following passage ,then answer the questions below:

Many experts believe there are too many people in the world .Unless there are big changes in the way people think about the number of children they should have , the world's population will double in 25 years .There will be more than 20 cities with populations greater than 20 million .Some people –who do not understand what overpopulation means point to countries such as Australia and say, "There is plenty of rooms there." Although most of Australia is unpopulated and much of it is thinly populated, there are reasons for this. Firstly, much of the land is desert and waterless. Secondly, even the land that is not desert is not suitable for anything, not even growing grass. Another major problem we shall have to face as the world's population grows is a shortage of energy. We are using up coal and oil and when they have been used up, we shall have to find something to take their place .It is true that we can make electricity from the heat of the sun and moving water, but we don't yet have the technology to do this in a big way .Add to this, because of rising populations and more people using cars, the world's consumption of petroleum rose by about 4 per cent a year and will double every 18 years. But, perhaps the biggest problem we shall have when the world's population doubles will be pollution .Governments should do their best to alleviate this problem.

III- Summary Making(20marks)

There are various methods which are used at schools to evaluate students. Periodical tests and final exams are some of these means.

A teacher can also notice in class how far his students are responsive to him and interested in their work. Some teachers would often test their students on the spot so as to see they are on task. School activities, too, may be an area in which the learners can be evaluated. They can practice doing things physically or mentally. This can show their interests, tendencies, hobbies and characters.

Evaluation is vital not only for developing the learning process but for motivating the students to promote their study as well .According to the marks the students have scored in the test, a teacher can modify his techniques and can adopt new methods to improve the standard of students.

In FOUR sentences of your own write how teachers can evaluate their students.

The summary should address the following points:

- Periodical tests and final exams.
- Class observation.
- Tests on the spot.
- School activities.
