Reading Comprehension & Summary Making

Read the following passage and answer the questions below:

Scientists who have studied animal hibernation define it as one of the main adaptations that allow certain animals in very cold areas to survive during long cold winters. Hibernation is like a very deep sleep that makes animals save their energy when there is little or no food available for them.

They say that body functions of "true hibernators" go through several changes while they are hibernating. Body temperature drops, and the heart palpitation rate slows. For example, a hibernating woodchuck's body temperature drops by more than 30 degrees Celsius, and its heart rate slows from 80 to 4 beats per minute! There are some other true hibernators like the jumping mouse, little brown bat, eastern chipmunk, and several ground squirrels. Other animals, such as the skunk and raccoon, are not considered true hibernators, as they wake up in the winter to feed, and their body functions do not change as much. Since they only sleep for a little bit at a time, the term dormancy or "light sleeping" is used to describe their behavior.

The largest animals to hibernate are bears. Their heart rate may slow down from a usual 40-50 beats per minute to 8-12 beats per minute, but their body temperature changes very little, so they are able to wake up quickly. Scientists have found a special substance in the blood of hibernating animals. It is called HIT (Hibernation Inducement Trigger). This substance works like antifreeze and becomes active in the late fall, when the days become colder and shorter.

When HIT becomes active, the animals start preparing for winter. Some animals store food so that they can eat when they wake up, and some animals eat a lot in late summer and fall to add excess fat to their bodies. This fat keeps them warmer and acts as a source of energy while they are sleeping. Some animals also make changes to the places where they will sleep (dens). They add leaves and grasses to keep them warm. Many animals seek sheltered places and undergo chemical changes to prevent their tissues from freezing. Others can tolerate certain levels of ice between cells, commonly in tandem with chemical changes.

A) From a, b, c and d choose the correct answer:

1- The (HIT) substance is found in the blood of hibernating animals to.....

- | | |
|-------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| a. help them sleep longer | b. keep their heart rate stable |
| c. protect them from freezing | d. activate them in warmer days |

2. The underlined word "they" in the second paragraph refers to:

- | | |
|-------------------|---------------------|
| a. scientists. | b. true hibernators |
| c. body functions | d. heart beats. |

3. The term dormancy or " light sleeping " is used to describe:

- a. bear behavior.
- b. true hibernators' behavior.
- c. skunk and raccoon's behavior.
- d. jumping mouse's behavior.

4. The underlined word " survive " in the first paragraph means :

- a. to sleep
- b. to remain alive

READING COMPREHENSION & SUMMARY MAKINGRead the following passage, then answer the questions below:

A commercial advertisement on television is a span of television programming produced and paid for by an organization, which conveys a message, typically to mark a product or service. The vast majority of television advertisements today consist of brief advertising spots, ranging in length from a few seconds to several minutes.

The first television advertisement was broadcast in the United States on July 1, 1941. The watchmaker Bulova paid $9 for a placement on New York station WNBT before a baseball game. The 10-second spot displayed a picture of a clock superimposed on a map of the United States, accompanied by the voice-over "America runs on Bulova time."

Advertising agencies often use humor as a tool in their creative marketing campaigns. They believe that an advertisement may have a certain appeal that is difficult to achieve with actors or mere product displays.

For each hour in a broadcast day, advertisements take up a fairly consistent proportion of the time. Commercial breaks have become longer. In the 1960s a typical hour-long American show would run for 51 minutes excluding advertisements. Today, a similar program would only be 42 minutes long; a typical 30-minute block of time now includes 22 minutes of programming and eight minutes of advertisements - six minutes for national advertising and two minutes for local.

Despite the popularity of some advertisements, many consider them to be an annoyance for a number of reasons. The main reason may be that the sound volume of advertisements tends to be higher than that of regular programming. The increasing number of advertisements, as well as overplaying of the same advertisement, are secondary annoyance factors. Furthermore, television is currently the main medium to advertise, prompting ad campaigns by everyone from cell-phone companies, political campaigns, fast food restaurants, to local businesses, and small businesses, prompting longer commercial breaks. Finally, another reason is that advertisements often cut into certain parts in the regular programming that are either climaxes of the plot or a major turning point in the show, which many people find exciting or entertaining.

A)-From a, b, c and d choose the best completion:

1. The main idea of the text could be

- a- The advertising agencies
- b- The first television advertisement
- c- Television commercial advertisements
- d- The popularity of some advertisements

2. The underlined word "proportion" in the fourth paragraph means:

- a- part or share
- b- group of
- c- the whole percentage
- d- the whole

3. The underlined pronoun "that" in the third paragraph refers to:

- a- advertisement
- b- humor
- c- creative marketing
- d- certain appeal

4. The first television advertisement was about:

- a. a picture of a clock superimposed on a map
- b. a placement on New York station WNBT
- c- a watchmaker Bulova
- d. America runs on Bulova time

B)-Answer the following questions:

5. Why are advertisements used?

6. Why do advertising agencies use humor to make advertisements?

7. With reference to the text, what do TV advertisements represent?

C) Summary Making

أحمد: هل تعلم ان لوسائل الاعلام تاثيرات ايجابية و اخرى سلبية؟
خالد: هذا صحيح. لكن يعود القرار للافراد في اختيار تاثير الاعلام على حياته.

Reading Comprehension & Summary Making

Read the following passage ,then answer the questions below:

After the violent earthquake that shook Los Angeles in 1994, earthquake scientists had good news to report; the damage and death toll (the number of people who die because of an accident) could have been much worse. More than 60 people died in this earthquake. By comparison, an earthquake of similar intensity that shook America in 1988 claimed 25000 victims.

Injuries and deaths were relatively less in Los Angeles because the quake occurred at 4:31 a.m. on a holiday, when traffic was light on the city's highways. In addition, changes made to the construction laws in Los Angeles during the last 20 years have strengthened the city's buildings and highways, making them more resistant to the quakes,

Civil engineers are working on improving quake- resistant buildings that can offer greater security to cities where earthquakes often take place. In the past, making quake resistant structures meant firm yet flexible materials, such as steel and wood that bend without breaking. Later people tried to lift a building off its foundation. And put in rubber and steel between the building and its foundation to reduce the impact of ground vibrations. The most recent designs give buildings brains as well as concrete and steel support, called smart buildings, the structures respond like living organisms to an earthquake's vibrations. When the ground shakes and the building tips forward, the computer would force the building to shift in the opposite direction. The new smart structures could be very expensive to build. However, they would save many lives and would be less likely to be damaged during earthquake.

A) From a, b, c and d, choose the correct answer:

1- The underlined word "intensity" in line 3 means

- a- building
- b- direction
- c- strength
- d- design

2- The underlined word them in line 7 refers to

- a- changes
- b- buildings and highways
- c- construction laws
- d- injuries and deaths

3- The smart buildings discussed in the passages would

- a- be easily damaged
- b- be useful though expensive
- c- be made of rubber only
- d- be made of wood

4- The main idea of the passage is

- a- the bad effects caused by earthquakes
- b- How to make more use of computers to improve life
- c- The history of building materials
- d- New developments in designing quake resistant buildings.

B) Answer the following questions:

5- Why are civil engineers working on improving buildings?

6- Though the earthquake of Los Angeles was violent, the death toll was relatively less. Explain why.

7. Which material did people use in the past to make buildings more resistant to quake?

C) Summary Making

In four sentences of your own and with reference to the last paragraph, answer the following question:

“What are the different types of quake resistant buildings?”
